GREAT BARRIER RELIEF

Strengthening the skin barrier to safeguard skin

More than a beauty buzzword, the skin barrier refers to the outermost layer of skin that crucially protects against environmental stressors such as bacteria, micro-organisms, and viruses. The newest, multifunctional formulas restore balance of the skin's microbiome, regulate water, support cell turnover, and help the skin barrier act as a shield against myriad irritants. At a time when hyper-diligent hygiene practices can lead to compromised skin (cue over-use of antibacterial soap), the solution is reinforcing the skin barrier, thereby promoting healthy, hydrated, and high-functioning skin.

Embryolisse Active Water

Booth DBS4

More than thermal water and micellar water, Embryolisse Active Water is a multifunctional, protective face mist with water derived from a patented Japanese technology. The water has been deoxygenated, purified, and then enriched with negative ions via an electrolytic process, before being re-mineralized. When in contact with the skin, the abundance of negative ions coats and repels bacteria, impurities, and pollution particles. Active Water contains minerals (calcium, sodium, phosphorus, magnesium, and potassium) that strengthen, protect, balance, and energize the skin. It is 100% natural and free of preservatives. It wakes up the skin in the morning, and strengthens its barrier function.

Non-toxic, non-irritating, and naturally derived, it provides clean beauty benefits that shield and purify skin without harsh chemicals. The mist freshens the face with a burst of hydration and helps to fight bacteria-causing germs that adhere to the face without drying or damaging skin.

The Oasis Barrier Booster

Booth DB40050

The Oasis Barrier Booster is an infusion serum that delivers an immediate soothing effect to the skin. It is used to strengthen the skin barrier, and repair skin barrier damage induced by dehydration and over-cleansing. The serum features SeH-Haw EX, a concentrate derived from kinkeliba (a plant grown in the Sahara that is traditionally used to brew herbal tea), known for its healing properties that are reportedly 20% more effective than resveratrol. It also boasts higher antioxidant levels than green tea. Combined with cactus extract, this botanical active not only calms skin more effectively than aloe vera, but also alleviates redness, reduces inflammation, and restores skin's delicate barrier.

CULT OF CBD

CBD proliferates in the age of Covid-19

The skyrocketing of CBD continues unabated, together with ongoing consumer demand for health and wellness products. More people are seeking natural alternatives to pharmaceuticals in order to address such ailments as pain, anxiety, depression, inflammation, and insomnia. While the CBD landscape in the US is complex with regard to FDA approval, and regulations can be stringent, the legalization of CBD around the world is further boosting the market. Growing clinical trials and R&D investments point to even more innovative blends and extracts on the horizon, in addition to the fact that the legalization of recreational marijuana in the US is fast gaining momentum.

Now, freed from the constraints of social distancing, people are craving an outlet, to "catch up" on good times, and let go. They are trying out the new skills they acquired from watching countless beauty tutorials, taking creative risks, and reveling in it all!

Luna Magic (US)

Luna Magic x Boxycharm Va-Va Pink Lash Primer

Booth BV12

Luna Magic partnered with Boxycharm to create a pink lash primer that gives lashes an XXL boost. With just one sweep, the primer mascara glides on, and evenly coats and smooths lashes to maximize a favorite mascara. A natural wax provides creaminess to the texture along with an emulsifier that adds volume, extra length, and a long-lasting effect. A texturizing agent helps with combability and spreadability, creating well-defined and separated lashes. Pink in color, the lash primer allows the black pigments to stand out from the clean base with more intensity than traditional mascaras.

GO WITH THE GLOW

Glowing up signifies health and well-being

Goodbye sallow skin, hello glowy vibe! After more than a year of lockdown restrictions, luminous skin that looks like it glows from within is more desirable than ever - an instant signifier of radiant health and well-being. More people are aware of how lifestyle factors, including sleep quality, and stress levels, contribute to overall skin health and appearance. As face masks gradually come down, the new glow is about reenergizing skin and letting natural skin texture shine through. Consider it a backlash of the cakey, contoured complexions of recent years. Glowing skin has nothing to hide.

JUST COMPOST IT

Biodegradable packaging is gaining traction

The drive towards conscious consumerism is inspiring beauty brands to challenge their supply chains and make the leap towards biodegradable packaging. Many bio-plastics degrade when they are composted, following a circular economy whereby sustainable plastics are manufactured from renewable resources before returning back to nature. The term “certified compostable” is, in fact, more accurate as it denotes products that will degrade 90% in 180 days under specific conditions. Other materials, such as paper, sugar cane, mushroom, agar (obtained from red algae), seaweed, and food waste by-products break down into harmless particles and contain no micro-plastics – all of which are earth-friendly alternatives to plastic.

It is packaged in 100% backyard-compostable packaging, consisting of only starch, bamboo, and charcoal, and doubles as a storage container for the body butter until it is finished.

AT-HOME TWEAKMENTS

Home-use devices & formulas rival professional treatments

Advances in beauty device technology, skin care formulations, and ingredients are rivaling professional cosmetic treatments performed in-office – no needles required. Since lockdown, many people became aware of their real or perceived imperfections thanks to endless time spent in front of the camera (the “Zoom Effect”), and they are investing in high-performing DIY skin care that is both safe and easy to use. As devices become ever smarter, especially when used in tandem with supercharged formulations, the results will minimize the need for costlier, and more invasive, plastic surgery procedures down the road.
